

Volunteers Wanted

Researchers from University Behavioral Health Care are looking for volunteers for a research study on how clinical disorders change visual perception and the brain.

People with a diagnosis of schizophrenia or bipolar disorder, and people with no psychiatric history may be eligible to participate.

- The study involves about 3 - 4 visits each lasting between 1 to 3 hours.
- Participants will complete a psychiatric interview. They will also lie inside a medical imaging (fMRI) scanner as they make judgments about what is seen on a screen. (The study involves no treatment or medication.)
- Participants will be paid between $20 -- $30 per hour and could earn a total of $180-$290.
- Transportation costs will be covered for some participants.
- If eligible, some participants may receive a picture of their own brains.
