COPING

An open support group for families dealing with mental illness COPING is a project provided by NAMI Middlesex County in its ongoing attempts to improve the quality of life for people with recurring mental illness and their families.

Companionship

We provide a forum for family and friends to share common experiences in dealing with mental illness in our families.

Open Discussion

We share information and suggestions to help resolve common problems. This fosters the development of useful tools that can be implemented to ease family burden.

Peer Support

We help one another deal with the isolation and frustration that we feel in our attempts to cope with mental illness.

Information Exchange

One fundamental contribution of COPING is to give family members insight into new directions, which is achieved through the fruitful interchange of experience and information.

New Direction

A common reaction of family members is to let their own lives suffer as they struggle with the mental illness of a loved one. However, as the lifeguard knows, one must keep oneself from being pulled under to save those in need of help.

Growing Hope

Families in COPING soon find that their problems are not unique, and they gain strength by releasing their frustrations in a friendly and understanding atmosphere. New perspectives help families to plan for positive change in the future.
